

Interviews

The objective of the interview is to gather as much information about the candidate as possible in order to decide the suitability of the candidate for the post. Therefore the following information is collected by the interviewee during an interview:

- Personality and behaviour
- Confidence level
- Skill and Knowledge
- Technical competence relevant for the job
- Initiative and Commitment
- Presence of mind
- Approach towards work
- Ability and urge to learn
- Capacity to adjust and work in a team
- Potential for growth
- Attitude

Qualities of an Interviewee (candidate):

- ✓ Punctuality and Patience
- ✓ Warmth and cheer
- ✓ Clarity of thought and speech
- ✓ Attentive and focused mind
- ✓ Frank and honest behaviour
- ✓ Assertive tone and voice
- ✓ Common sense and logic
- ✓ Wit and humour
- ✓ Convincing power
- ✓ Confident body language
- ✓ Impressive conversational style
- ✓ Courtesy and politeness
- ✓ Commitment and dedication
- ✓ Dynamic nature

Tips to Boost Your Interview Skills

Interviewing is a learned skill, and there are no second chances to make a great first impression. So study these strategies to enhance your interview skills.

Before the interview

Be sure to do some background research to become familiar with the organization. This might include researching any current events that might relate to the organization or industry, the organization's goals and objectives, and the history of the company. Here are some questions to help you with your research:

- What does the organization do?
- What's involved in the position you're applying for?
- What qualifications do you need for the position?
- What kind of skills is the employer looking for?
- Who are the customers or clients?
- What kind of reputation does the employer have?

You'll be more comfortable in the interview if you know a bit about the company and the position you're applying for.

Print off an extra copy of your résumé so the employer can refer to it during the interview. You should also bring a copy of your reference list.

Preparing for interview questions

One of the best ways to prepare for an interview is to anticipate questions the interviewer may ask. This will allow you to give thoughtful and organized answers during your interview.

Here are some questions you should be comfortable answering:

- Why do you want this job?
- How did you become interested in this field of work?
- What do you have to offer this organization?
- What are some of your strengths and weaknesses?
- What do you see yourself doing in five years?

Here are some tips to help you strengthen your answers to potential interview questions:

- Review your experiences at work, at school, and in volunteer activities.
- Think of examples and situations that demonstrate your abilities or strengths (for example, a time you demonstrated good judgment, initiative, responsibility, or communication skills).
- Make a list of your accomplishments or achievements to reference during the interview.

- Think about challenges you've faced in the past, and be prepared to describe how you dealt with them and what you learned.

Preparing questions for the employer

At the end of an interview, you are typically asked if you have any questions about the organization or job you're applying for.

Your job interview is not only an opportunity for the employer to interview you – it's also an opportunity for you to interview your employer. By asking thoughtful and appropriate questions, you are showing the employer that you're interested in being part of their organization.

Things you could ask the employer include:

- How is the organization structured, and how would my role contribute to the work of the organization?
- What is a typical day in the life of a person who works in this position?
- How would this position allow me to learn and grow?
- When do you anticipate making the decision about hiring for this position?

Practice Good Nonverbal Communication

It is about demonstrating confidence: standing straight, making eye contact and connecting with a firm handshake. That first nonverbal impression can be a great beginning – or quick ending – to your interview.

Dress for the Job or Company

Today's casual dress codes do not give you permission to dress as "they" do when you interview. It is important to know what to wear to an interview and to be well-groomed. Whether you wear a suit or something less formal depends on the company culture and the position you are seeking. If possible, call to find out about the company dress code before the interview.

Listen

From the very beginning of the interview, your interviewer is giving you information, either directly or indirectly. If you are not hearing it, you are missing a major opportunity. Good communication skills include listening and letting the person know you heard what was said. Observe your interviewer, and match that style and pace.

Don't Talk Too Much

Telling the interviewer more than he needs to know could be a fatal mistake. When you have not prepared ahead of time, you may ramble when answering interview questions, sometimes talking yourself right out of the job. Prepare for the interview by reading through the job posting, matching your skills with the position's requirements and relating only that information.

Don't Be Too Familiar

The interview is a professional meeting to talk business. This is not about making a new friend. Your level of familiarity should mimic the interviewer's demeanor. It is important to bring energy and enthusiasm to the interview and to ask questions, but do not overstep your place as a candidate looking for a job.

Use Appropriate Language

It's a given that you should use professional language during the interview. Be aware of any inappropriate slang words or references to age, race, religion, politics or sexual orientation -- these topics could send you out the door very quickly.

Don't Be Cocky

Attitude plays a key role in your interview success. There is a fine balance between confidence, professionalism and modesty. Even if you're putting on a performance to demonstrate your ability, overconfidence is as bad, if not worse, as being too reserved.

Take Care to Answer the Questions

When interviewers ask for an example of a time when you did something, they are asking behavioral interview questions, which are designed to elicit a sample of your past behavior. If you fail to relate a specific example, you not only don't answer the question, but you also miss an opportunity to prove your ability and talk about your skills.

Ask Questions

When asked if they have any questions, most candidates answer, "No." Wrong answer. Part of knowing how to interview is being ready to ask questions that demonstrate an interest in what goes on in the company. Asking questions also gives you the opportunity to find out if this is the right place for you. The best questions come from listening to what you're asked during the interview and asking for additional information.

Don't Appear Desperate

When you interview with the "please, please hire me" approach, you appear desperate and less confident. Reflect the three Cs during the interview: cool, calm and confidence. You know you can do the job; make sure the interviewer believes you can, too.

Preparing for a job interview

The job interview is a crucial part of your job search because it's an opportunity for the employer to figure out if you're right for the job. This page will provide you with information to prepare for your job interview so that you can make a positive and lasting impression.

What to prepare Before an Interview

Knowing that you have an interview coming up can be stressful. However, if you use the time before your interview to prepare yourself, you will likely look and feel more confident during the interview.

Research the company

During an interview, you will need to show an employer that you know about and understand the needs of the company. One way to prepare for this is to research the company.

In general, you want to find out:

- What products or services the company sells
- Who its customers and competitors are
- How the company is doing within the industry
- What the company culture is like

Researching tools

- Use our Company Research Guide to gather essential information.
- Don't worry if you can't find every answer to every question. You'll likely use only part of this information in your interview, but it is better to go in with a good understanding of the company. Print it out, take notes on it as you research, and take it with you to your interview.
- If you can't find information on the company's website, consider using a networking site to find someone who can tell you about the company.
- If you are a student or recent graduate, you can visit your college's career services office.

Other researching tips

- Drive to the interview location beforehand – preferably at the same time of day as your interview – so you can get a good estimate of how long the travel time will be on the actual day of your interview. You don't want to be late for an interview!
- The actual job description or job posting will likely contain information about the company.

Decide what to wear to an interview

Like most people, interviewers are susceptible to first impressions, and one of the first things an interviewer will see of you is how you're dressed. Because you want to make sure your first impression is a good one, here are some things to keep in mind when choosing an outfit for an interview.

- A good interview outfit should be relatively formal, so don't wear jeans, T-shirts, or sneakers unless you've specifically been asked to wear them. A business suit is usually a safe bet for either a man or a woman. If you don't have a business suit, a long-sleeved, solid-colored shirt (button-down for men) or sweater and a pair of dark-colored cotton or wool pants will usually work.
- When you choose your clothes, make sure they fit well, are not visibly worn out, and are comfortable to sit down in. Both men and women should avoid wearing clothing that's too tight because provocative clothing isn't seen as professional attire. Women should avoid low necklines and short skirts for the same reason.
- Keep accessories to a minimum. Wearing too much jewelry, makeup, perfume, or cologne is considered unprofessional, and it won't make a good impression on an interviewer. You may even want to avoid perfume or cologne altogether because you have no way of knowing whether any of the people you will meet are allergic to it.
- Wear dark or neutral colors, even if these aren't colors you ordinarily wear. This applies not only to the clothes you wear but also to accessories and shoes. Women should also wear neutral-colored stockings, and men should wear neutral or dark ties.
- Make sure you are well-groomed when you are going to an interview. Check that your hair and nails are neat and clean and that your clothing is unwrinkled or ironed before leaving the house. This shows the interviewer that you took time to prepare for the interview and are taking it seriously.
- Keep in mind that not every tip on this list will apply in all situations. For an audition interview, for example, you may be expected to dress less formally, depending on what you'll be asked to do. If you're not sure what to wear, you may be able to call the human resources department of the company and ask what would be appropriate. You can also ask friends or colleagues who may have interviewed at similar workplaces.

Decide what to take with you to an interview

After you have decided what to wear, it is time to think about what you should bring along with you to the interview. It's also important to know what you should leave at home or in your car.

It is best to assemble the items you are bringing along in a briefcase or similar professional-looking organizer. Remember, your first impression should be as a neat, organized, and prepared individual!

Practice answering questions

Because the largest portion of your interview will be spent answering questions, the best way to prepare for an interview is to anticipate the questions you'll likely be asked and then practice your answers to these questions.

All interviewers will ask some common interview questions to determine if you are the best candidate for the job. These questions usually deal with your career goals, your level of interest in the job and company, your job skills and motivation, and your interpersonal communication skills.

For the best results, consider practicing your answers in front of a mirror, with a friend, or using a video camera. These methods can provide constructive feedback, in addition to building the confidence and comfort you need for the real interview.

Prepare your own questions to ask

An interview is as much for you as it is for the hiring manager. It is your chance to find out more about the job, the company, the industry, and your potential boss. Your questions should show your genuine interest in or understanding of the company. Knowing which questions to ask and which to not ask can help you get more out of your interview – and can perhaps even get you the job!

If you don't ask any questions during your job interview, the hiring manager may believe you're not really interested in the job! On the other hand, asking certain questions might give the hiring manager the same impression. Avoid questions about salary or benefits until you've been offered the job.

What to prepare during an interview

Your qualifications and skills are only a part of what the hiring manager is looking for when conducting an interview. Whether you get the job depends largely on how you behave at the interview—what you do, what you say, and how you say it.

From the first door you walk through to the final handshake on your way out, this lesson will help you learn how to behave during an interview. It will help you identify basic business etiquette that can improve your chances, as well as show you how your tone of voice and body language can be interpreted by an interviewer. It will also outline the basic rules for answering questions well.

Business etiquette

To land the job, you'll have to appear professional, confident, and capable. You will be judged not only on your ability to do the job itself but also on how well you will get along with the people with whom you will be working. The hiring manager watches your communication skills and your manners to predict whether you'll work well with others.

Fair or not, using poor manners can give the hiring manager the impression that:

- You are unlikely to be able to perform well in certain work situations, especially those involving work teams or customers
- You do not care about, value, or respect the people with whom you are interacting
- You are prone to rudeness or ignorance

The tone of your voice

Often, your tone of voice says more than your words do. You can say you know how to perform the job duties, but if it doesn't sound like you do then you won't inspire much confidence in the hiring manager.

How to sound more confident during the job interview:

- Pause before answering to give yourself time to gather your thoughts. A five second pause may seem like a long time to, but it will likely show the interviewer that you have considered your answer.
- Stick with a factual but interested tone. Avoid raising the pitch of your voice at the end of a statement. Doing so can change the tone of your statement to one of a question, which makes you seem uncertain. Avoid using the same tone for every answer, though, as it can make you sound bored.
- Practice your answers before you go. If you have a good answer prepared and practiced, it will be on the tip of your tongue! You will sound more confident if you are not trying to think up an answer on the spot.
- Try to eliminate or reduce the number of times you say um, uh, like, and you know. These filler phrases imply that you are not sure about what you want to say.
- Don't use "weak words." Starting your answers with I think that I am ... and I hope to ... and I believe I can ... imply that you are not certain of your abilities.
- Don't apologize for being nervous. Doing so actually calls more attention to the fact that you are worried about your performance.

Your body language

Body language can communicate almost as much information as what you are actually saying. Your true thoughts and attitude can be reflected in your body language. The more positive you feel about the interview and your abilities, the more likely this will be reflected in your body language.

Take a look at some examples of how body language can communicate thoughts and feelings.

How can you improve your body language?

Try video recording yourself during a practice interview to observe your body language. You can also practice with a friend or use a web conferencing tool which allows you to see a mirror view of yourself while you are talking to another person. Pay attention to any unflattering mannerisms you may exhibit, like biting your lip, scowling while thinking, or nervous tapping.

While it is good to be aware of any body language concerns, the best way to portray good body language is to approach the interview with a positive attitude. When you feel positive, you will naturally relax and smile more, thus making you appear more confident and appealing.

Answering questions well

The largest part of your interview will be spent answering questions, so you will definitely want to know how to answer questions well.

Sample Interview questions list:

Basic interview questions:

- Introduce yourself/Tell me about yourself.
- What are your strengths and weaknesses?
- Why do you want this job?
- Where would you like to be in your career five years from now?
- What is your ideal company?
- What is your dream job?
- What attracted you to this company?
- Why should we hire you?
- What did you like least about your last job?
- When were you most satisfied in your job?
- What can you do for us that other candidates can't?
- What were the responsibilities of your last position?
- Why do you wish to leave your present job?
- What do you know about this industry?
- What do you know about our company?
- Are you willing to relocate?
- Do you have any questions for us?

Behavioural interview questions:

- What was the last project you headed up, and what was its outcome?
- Give me an example of a time that you felt you went above and beyond the call of duty at work?
- Can you describe a time when your work was criticized?

- Have you ever been on a team where someone was not pulling their own weight? How did you handle it?
- Tell me more about a time when you had to give someone difficult feedback. How did you handle it?
- What is your greatest failure, and what did you learn from it?
- What irritates you about other people, and how do you deal with it?
- If I were your supervisor and asked you to do something that you disagreed with, what would you do?
- What was the most difficult period in your life, and how did you deal with it?
- Give me an example of a time when you did something wrong. How did you handle it?
- What irritates you about other people, and how do you deal with it?
- Tell me about a time when you had to deal with conflict on the job.
- If you found out your company was doing something against the law, like fraud, what would you do?
- What assignment was too difficult for you, and how did you resolve the issue?
- What is the most difficult decision you have made in the last two years and how did you come to that decision?
- Describe how would you handle a situation if you were required to finish multiple tasks by the end of the day, and there was not conceivable way that you could finish them.

Salary questions

- What is your salary history?
- What salary do you expect from this job?
- If I were to give you this salary you requested but let you write your job description for the next year, what would it say?

Career Development questions:

- What kind of goals would you have in mind if you got this job?
- What are you looking for in terms of career development?
- If I were to ask you last supervisor to provide you additional training or exposure, what would he suggest?
- How do you want to improve yourself in the next year?

Getting started questions:

- How long will it take for you to make a significant contribution?
- How would you go about establishing your credibility quickly with the team?
- If selected for this position, can you describe your strategy for the first three months?
- What do you see yourself doing within the first month of this job?

Additional questions:

- Tell me about your proudest achievement.
- Who was your favourite manager and why?
- What do you think of your previous boss?
- Was there a person in your career who really made a difference?
- What kind of personality do you work best with and why?
- What are you most proud of?
- What do you like to do?
- What are you passionate about?
- What are your lifelong dreams?
- What do you ultimately want to become?
- What is your personal mission statement?
- How would you describe your work style?
- What would be your ideal working environment?
- What do you look for in terms of culture – structured or entrepreneurial?
- Give examples of ideas you have had or implemented.
- What techniques and tools do you use to keep yourself organized?
- If you had to choose one, would you consider yourself big-picture person or a detail-oriented person?
- What are the three positive things would your last boss say about you?
- What three positive character traits would your friends use to describe you?
- What are the three positive character traits you don't have?
- If you were interviewing someone for this position, what traits would you look for?
- List five words that describe your character?
- Who has impacted you most in your career and how?
- What is your greatest fear?
- What is your biggest regret and why?
- What is the most important thing you learned in school?
- What will you miss about your present/last job?
- What is your greatest achievement outside of work?
- What are the qualities of a good leader according to you?
- Do you think a leader should be feared or liked?
- How do you feel about taking no for an answer?
- What would you do if you won a lottery?
- Who are your ideals and heroes?
- What is your favourite pass time activity?
- What do you like to do for fun?
- What is your favourite memory from childhood?
- How would you feel about working for someone who knows less than you?

- How do you think I rate as an interviewer?
- Tell me one thing about yourself you wouldn't want me to know.
- Tell me the difference between good and exceptional.
- If you could be anywhere in the world right now, where would you be?
- What is the last book you read?

Sample Interviews:

1. Rajat Sharma is appearing for an interview at Dell for the post of Voice and Accent Trainer.

Rajat Sharma : Sir, may I come in please.

Interviewer : Yes, please.

Rajat Sharma : Good morning, Sir.

Interviewer : Good Morning, please have a seat.

Rajat Sharma : Thank you, Sir.

Interviewer : To begin with, tell me something about yourself.

Rajat Sharma : I am Rajat Sharma. I have just completed my B.A. with honours. I come from Surat and I am fond of communicating in English.

Interviewer : Why do you want to work here?

Rajat Sharma : I feel that your company is the right place for me. I think that I'll get good opportunities to utilize my skill and training here.

Interviewer : Why did you pick up English for specialisation in your college?

Rajat Sharma : Sir, I was fond of English right from my childhood and I feel that it is the lingua franca of the world.

Interviewer : What is your dream job?

Rajat Sharma : Sir, my dream job is to become a renowned Voice Accent Trainer in English.

Interviewer : Tell me about your strengths and weaknesses.

Rajat Sharma : My passion for English literature is my strength. But it is also my weakness. Because I often go too deep into the issues of language.

Interviewer : Describe a difficult problem that you have dealt with at your college level.

Rajat Sharma : I had problems with accent and phonetics initially. But then I recovered.

Interviewer : What kind of salary would you be looking for?

Rajat Sharma : As per the company norms and my job profile.

Interviewer : Do you have any questions?

Rajat Sharma : Yes Sir. What kind of responsibility will I be assigned?

Interviewer : You may go through the documents related to this matter.

Rajat Sharma : Thanks a lot, Sir. It'll surely be very helpful.

Interviewer : Very well, Mr Sharma. Thank you.

Rajat Sharma : Thank you very much, Sir. Have a nice day, Sir.

2. The head of a start-up company which specializes in web design interviews an engineering student who has applied for an internship with the company.

Candidate : May I come in, Sir?

Interviewer : Please come in. Have a seat.

Candidate : Thank you. Good morning Sir!

Interviewer : Introduce yourself.

Candidate : Sir, I am Amit Mehra from Surat. I am an engineering student at the SVNIT, Surat. I am presently studying in the last semester of software engineering.

Interviewer : What industry sites and blogs do you read regularly?

Candidate : Sir, I usually visit Product Hunt, Flipcart, Canopy, Genius, Mantelligence, Vox, The Information and iDreamBooks and read from these blogs and sites.

Interviewer : How comfortable are you with writing HTML entirely by hand?

Candidate : I am quite comfortable. In fact I have done a lot of work in that area.

Interviewer : What applications do you use daily?

Candidate : Yoga Studio, Camera360, Memail, Boomerang, Dictionary, Google Chrome, Photoshop, WhatsApp, and Facebook.

Interviewer : What are a few of your favourite designing tools and why?

Candidate : Fontello, Foundation 3, Dreamweaver CS6, Adobe Edge Inspect, Microsoft Webmatrix 2, Firefox 18 and Photon. These tools are my favourite because they enable us to create wonderful designs and most of these are free.

Interviewer : What is CSS and is it case sensitive?

Candidate : CSS means Cascading Style Sheets. It is not case sensitive. However, font families, URLs to images, and other direct references with the style sheet may be.

Interviewer : What are some questions you ask when starting a new project?

Candidate : What is the purpose, who is the user, what is the time frame, what is the budget and how can I make it easy and accessible?

Interviewer : How do you stay on top of current design trends?

Candidate : I regularly update myself from the technology websites and blogs. I also read books on web designing technology.

Interviewer : Have you had a chance to look through our site? How would you describe our brand?

Candidate : Yes, of course. I have gone through your site. It is just amazing and impressive for a start-up company as yours.

Interviewer : How long do you intend to work for us?

Candidate : I intend to work with you for a long time since I wish to settle here in this city. Also I find a great scope for growth in your company.

Interviewer : What makes a great work environment for you?

Candidate : Cooperation from colleagues and encouragement from seniors make a great work environment for me. Also I expect some freedom of thought and action.

Interviewer : Will you be happy with a comparatively less salary as we are a start-up company?

Candidate : Why not? Actually, I want to learn a lot from your company. My internship will certainly lead my career to the desired level.

Interviewer : Do you have any questions about the position or about our company that I can answer?

Candidate : Sure Sir, I would like to know about the office timing of the company.

Interviewer : It is 10 to 5 daily, six days a week.

Candidate : Thanks a lot, Sir.

Interviewer : You may leave now. You will be informed about the details later.

Candidate : Thank you very much, Sir. Good bye! Have a nice day, Sir.

3. Interview of a candidate who has appeared for the post of a baby-sitter.

Interviewer : What is your name and where do you live?

Candidate : My name is Shantiben Patel. I come from Nanpura, Surat.

Interviewer : Do you have any experience of baby-sitting?

Candidate : Yes, I have successfully done this job five times in the past.

Interviewer : Can you give a couple of references?

Candidate : Sure. Mr Rajnikant Desai from Adajan and Ms Rashmiben Jariwala from Majuragate area are my previous employers. I have done baby-sitting for their children.

Interviewer : Do you take holidays during the contract period?

Candidate : No, not at all. I shall regularly visit your house for baby-sitting without fail. I'll inform you in advance if at all I need a leave due to some emergency.

Interviewer : What is your charge and what are the terms of payment?

Candidate : I charge Rs 3000 per month and expect the payment in cash in the first week every month.

Interviewer : OK. Then you can join from tomorrow. Be sincere. Also be careful with the child, it is a bit naughty.

Candidate : Sure. Don't worry. I know how to deal with kids. I'll manage it. Thank you very much.

4. Interview of a sports person.

Reporter : Hello Mr Virat. How are you?

Virat Kohli : I'm fine, thank you.

Reporter : You must be feeling tired after that persistent test series against Sri Lanka.

Virat Kohli : Of course, a player gets tired during the test matches. But that is our job after all. Victory against the Sri Lankans has refreshed us all.

Reporter : What are your future plans?

Virat Kohli : Right now, we are in a mood of celebration. We have won a test series against Sri Lanka after 22 long years. It's a wonderful moment for us.

Reporter : Who do you think should get the credit for this victory?

Virat Kohli : It was a team effort and the whole team deserves credit for it. The bowlers performed exceptionally well.

Reporter : How does it feel to be the test captain of the Indian cricket team?

Virat Kohli : It always feels great to lead the team whether it be one-day or test matches. I feel elated especially when we have recorded a historic win.

Reporter : There are rumours of rift between you and Dhoni, the former captain. Is it true?

Virat Kohli : Let people enjoy the rumours. Personally, we don't have any differences or misunderstandings. We both play for the country.

Reporter : What about your relationship with Anushka? How serious are you about her?

Virat Kohli : I have nothing to hide. The world knows about it. I think time will clear all the doubts.

Reporter : You have been busy with a lot of ads lately. Does that disturb your game?

Virat Kohli : Not at all. I schedule things perfectly and do not allow anything to disturb my game.

Reporter : What about the next IPL season? Will you retain captaincy in that too?

Virat Kohli : I am quite excited about the forthcoming IPL season. The team owners will decide about the captaincy. I generally do not interfere in such matters.

Reporter : Who is your inspiration?

Virat Kohli : My parents and great cricketers like Sachin and Dravid keep inspiring me.

Reporter : Ok, then good luck for the next tournament and a great career ahead.

Virat Kohli : Thanks a lot. Good bye.

5. Interview of a student representative.

Student : Hello Samir! How are you?

G.S : I am fine, thank you!

Student : Congratulations on becoming the General Secretary of the college.

G.S : Thank you very much. I also thank all the students for having faith in me and electing me as their representative.

Student : So, what are your plans for this academic year.

G.S : First of all, I want to start a cleanliness campaign in our college. Also, I wish to improve the environment of the college as far as discipline concerned.

Student : That is indeed a good thought. And how will you accomplish that goal?

G.S : I have planned to form special committees for these two campaigns. These committees will collaborate with the college authorities from time to time and organise various activities to spread awareness among students.

Student : What are your other plans for the benefit of the students?

G.S : I intend to create a fund for the poor students who cannot afford to pay the fees. The students will plan and work in this direction too.

Student : And what about the entertainment part?

G.S : That too will be taken care of. We have decided to organise a musical morning this year in November. Then, a singing and dancing competition will be organised in December. In January, we shall host an inter college talent contest. Later in February, we shall have our annual function which will be theme based.

Student : What are your plans to improve the performance in sports this year?

G.S : We shall identify good sports persons among us and encourage them to compete at the college as well at the University level. We shall also try to get sponsorships to organise various sports events in our college. We have also decided to submit a proposal to develop the college playground.

Student : What kind of support do you expect from the students and teachers?

G.S : I expect the students to be cooperative in our endeavours. I want them to help and support us in organising various activities throughout the year. I expect the teachers to encourage, inspire and guide us in all our efforts.

Student : What are the other important issues that you have in mind?

G.S : I am really worried about the reading material. Also there are problems of the water cooler and the fans in the classrooms. We hope to sort these problems out with the help of the Principal and the management.

Student : Hope you achieve success in whatever you do. All the best!

G.S : Thanks a lot. Good bye.

Exercises

1. Fill in the blanks in the transcript of the interview below with suitable responses and expressions. After you finish enact it with a partner.

Candidate : May I come in, sir?

Interviewer : Yes, please come in and sit down.

Candidate : Thank you, sir.

Interviewer : You are nearly at the end of your MPhil programme in chemistry, aren't you?

Candidate : You are right, sir. I have submitted my dissertation.

Interviewer : Your area of specialization is nanomaterials, isn't it?

Candidate : Yes sir. My dissertation is on the effect of nano-oxide particles on brain cells.

Interviewer : Have you taught at the undergraduate level earlier?

Candidate : Yes sir, very briefly. I have taught for eight months last year as a part-time lecturer in the K. N. College of Science.

Interviewer : Haven't you considered taking the UPSC examinations? A career in the civil services is challenging, exciting and prestigious.

Candidate : I'm sure it is, sir. But I always wanted to be in the teaching profession.

Interviewer : Thank you, Ms Sagar. You'll be hearing from us shortly.

Candidate : Thank you very much. Have a nice day!

2. You have applied for a bank loan to study abroad and have been asked to attend an interview. Think of five questions that you could be asked and write them down along with your possible responses. Enact the interview with a partner.

Student : Good morning, Sir.

Bank Officer : Good morning, please have a seat.

Student : Sir, I have completed my graduation and wish to go abroad for higher studies. So, I require a loan to pay my fees and meet other expenses.

Bank Officer : Where do you wish to go and in which University do you wish to study?

Student : Sir, I wish to go to England for further studies. I have inquired about the Cambridge University and have applied for Masters Course there.

Bank Officer : How much amount do you want as a loan and what will be the term?

Student : I need a loan of Rs 5,00,000 for a term of 10 years.

Bank Officer : How will you repay the loan?

Student : I am sure I will be able to get a good job as soon as I complete my studies. I also intend to work part time to earn money. I shall repay the loan in quarterly instalments.

Bank Officer : What will you offer as bank guarantee?

Student : I offer my insurance policies worth Rs 10,00,000 as bank guarantee.

Bank Officer : Who will be your guarantor?

Student : My father will sign as my guarantor.

Bank Officer : Do you have a bank account with our branch or our bank?

Student : Yes, I do have a savings account with your branch.

Bank Officer : When do you require the loan?

Student : My course begins in June. So, I expect the loan by 15th May so that I can complete other formal procedures.

Bank Officer : Will you be able to submit all the required documents in two days?

Student : Yes, sure. I have all the documents ready.

Bank Officer : O.K. then, here is the education loan form. Fill it and submit it with all the relevant documents along with your photographs.

Student : Thank you very much, Sir.

Bank Officer : You are welcome. All the best!

Student : Thank you for your kind cooperation. Good bye, Sir.